puter model for evaluating multi target tracking algorithms

June 4th, 2020 - public benchmark datasets have been widely used to evaluate multi target tracking algorithms ideally the benchmark datasets should include the video scenes of all scenarios that need to be tested however a limited amount of the currently available benchmark datasets does not prehensively cover all necessary test scenarios this limits the evaluation of multitarget tracking algorithms'

'multiple maneuvering target tracking by improved particle

June 7th, 2020 - the multiple maneuvering target tracking algorithm based on a particle filter is addressed the equivalent noise approach is adopted which uses a simple dynamic model consisting of target state and equivalent noise which accounts for the bined effects of the process noise and maneuvers the equivalent noise approach converts the problem of maneuvering target tracking to that of state'a study of clustering applied to multiple target tracking
